Fraternization.

No one who feels a truly patriotic love for his country, and who has had the anxieties for its safety and welfare which the present and past aspects of parties necessarily carries with such a love, but must feel his hopes revive and his breast swell with emotion as he reads the eloquent and Union-breathing speeches made at the late festival in Lonisville. Whatever may be his party ties and preferences, if he is a patriot, and wishes the prosperity of his whole country, he can sympathize with the noble purpose that has carried our legislators and Governor to Louisville to fraternize with the functionaries of our sister States in this emergency of political affairs. We have read of pilgrimages to the shrines of saints and martyrs, of the devout Musselmen braving the privations and dangers of Arabian deserts to worship at the tomb of the Prophet; of Crusaders traversing sea and land to wrest the holy sepulchre from the hands of the Infidel; but nowhere have we read of so sublime a sight as that witnessed on this late occasion at Lonisville.

We are told that a congress of the nations of Europe is to assemble shortly to adjust national differences; but when we remember that in this only the most subtle and skillful diplomats are to meet—that every species of chicanery and diplomacy will be resorted to to overreach each other and gain some advantage, (and probably the result will be to enslave millions of human beings who have been struggling for ages for their liberty,) how sublime, in the contrast, does this meeting of the representatives of four great sovereignties as the peaceful guests of a great and enlightened city appear? Ought it not to bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of other representatives of those same sovereignties in another place? Their other representatives in Washington are "breathing out threatenings and slaughter," while these are banqueting together at the same feast, and nought is heard, as they pledge each other in the wine cup, but fraternity and brotherly love. Those have here renewed their vows of loyalty to the Constitution under which all were born, and by whose benign influence they were reclaimed from the forest and the savage, and are now giants in strength, and prosperous and happy to a degree never witnessed by any people in any other hemisphere. Not only have they there met and thus plighted each other, but they have gone in a mass to the far-off capital of one of their number, with a full confidence of meeting a kind and hearty reception from that one which was supposed to be least friendly in its political relations to the others. This is done in all republican simplicity, and without the "pomp and circumstance" attending the royal visits and ambassadorial receptions of the old world; yet we affirm, without the fear of contradiction, that never in this world of ours was witnessed such a commingling of the Representatives and Executives of four sovereign States, where there was less distrust or a more sincere fellowship and good feeling. This should not only shame political assemblies and disunion politicians, but is a worthy example to set before most religious convocations. These latter have been dissolved, and every feeling of brotherhood between the delegates from different sections been destroyed by this vexed question of slavery. They have taken this question from the political assemblies, where indeed it should never have been, and have entered upon its discussion with all the rancor characteristic of those political assemblies, but have gone further than their exemplars. Now it is high time for them to retrace their steps and follow their political prototypes in this, their good example, as well as the evil; and they can do much to bind up the wounds of the country which they have done so much to lacerate. If this unprecedented example of party and sectional abnegation, on the part of so many distinguished and exalted individuals, does not have a beneficial influence in calming sectional animosities among every class of the American people, they must be far more besotted by partisanship than we have yet believed. But it will have an influence; and it will cause the elements of discord to vanish, for it will soon be recognized that this is the spirit that animates the masses of the population, and the politicians, who are the most infallible of all barometers to indicate any change in popular sentiment, will soon begin to sing the songs of peace and hush the war chants they are piping now; the revolver and the bowie-knife will give place to the Bible and prayer-book in the bosoms of members of Congress, and we shall no more witness these formidable weapons escaping from the pockets of their owners upon the floor, to the consternation of peaceful men.

The credit of this whole thing is due primarily to the city of Louisville, and well may she be proud of this patriotic inauguration; for it is a wreath she may bind around her brow; and she may celebrate each annual return with pride and pleasure; for we predict that it will not only add to her fame as a patriotic and peace-loving city, but she has shown to hundreds of strangers, from far distant sections, her capabilities as a business place, and these will not only return to their homes with the most favorable impressions of her commercial advantages, but will communicate these impressions to others, and thus hundreds and thousands of merchants and planters will be directed to her as the best market to supply their wants, and capitalists will be also directed to her as the most promising of all the rising cities in the West, and as the surest to give a return for their investments. We think this compliment due to Louisville and her citizens, not only for their patriotism and munificent carrying out of this patriotic enterprise, but from the intrinsic merit of her situation and capabilities for a wondrous commerce. This Nashville Railroad throws the trade of the South into her lap, and this is as rich as that of India, which all the nations of Europe are now struggling to secure.

We wait with impatience to learn the particulars of the visit of the distinguished strangers to the capital of Ohio, not that we doubt they will be cordially welcomed and worthily entertained; but this is a matter so extremely novel to the Buckeye people, that we wish to know how they demean themselves in the peculiar situation. Be the particulars what they may, the results can only be gratifying to every honest heart, and we congratulate the people of Kentucky that this most healing suggestion sprung from the bosom of our own loved State, for it shows she is not unworthy to have claimed as her own the GREAT PACIFICATOR.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26, 1860.

Editor Yeoman: Mr. Keitt obtained the floor yesterday, and made an eloquent speech in reply to Mr Corwin, when another ballot was had.—Mr. Sherman received 105 votes, which was within three votes of an election, and he may yet be elected by a positive majority, the indorsement of the Helper book notwithstanding, from which he cannot escape. Thus we have 105 men in the House who indorse that infamous book in toto.—Will it require any extraordinary powers of discernment to state what the character of the legislation will be if Mr. Sherman is then elected, and should not the country be thankful that there are good and true men enough in the House determined to resist the adoption of the plurality rule? Mr. Sherman has an abiding faith in his being Speaker; and, notwithstanding his speech that he did not care for the empty honors of the chair, exults whenever a vote is taken, and announces with a very satisfied air what the result of the vote is.

The galleries of both the Senate and House are densely crowded whenever either is in session, not because any interest is taken in the proceedings, but for the reason that nobody has anything else to do before dinner, and it is considered intensely fashionable and intellectual to attend the debates in Congress. In the absence of a Speaker money is scarce, and credit is the order of the day. Promises to pay when a Speaker is elected, are plenty.

Capt. Simms, you will regret to learn, has been confined to his room for some days by severe sickness.

Hoops have been abandoned entirely by the ladies here—that is confidential. W. D.

Kentucky State Agricultural Society ---The next State Fair.

A meeting of the Board of Directors of the State Agricultural Society, will be held at Frankfort, on the 23d day of February, 1860, for the purpose, among other business, of receiving from the several local Societies in the State, propositions for holding with them the Fifth Annual Kentucky State Fair. Parties making propositions will please accompany them by statements of the extent of their grounds, the size and character of their buildings, fences, &c., and the nature of the public thoroughfares by which they are reached.

At this meeting, many public documents will be ready for distribution to members of the State Society, and also for delivery to officers of County or District Societies for distribution among their members.

AMERICAN STOCK JOURNAL.—We have the first number for 1860. Its contents commend it to the attention of every farmer and stock-grower, as it is devoted to the improvement of domestic animals. It is published monthly at 23 Park Row, New York, at one dollar per year; and each number contains 32 large octavo pages, handsomely illustrated.—The engravings of the Improved Kentucky Sheep and other animals, in the number before us, are well worth the subscription price.

☞Gen. Robert Butler, Assistant Adjutant General to Gen. Jackson at the battle of New Orleans, died at his residence at Lake Jackson, near Tallahasse, Florida, on the afternoon of January 12th. Gen. Butler had been in infirm health for a year or more, but it was only within a few days past, in consequence of attacks of a more alarming character, that serious apprehensions were felt that his long life was near its close. Only three of Gen. Jackson's prominent officers at that battle now survive, viz: Gen. Wm. O. Butler, of Kentucky, Maj. Shotard, of Mississippi, and Col. A. P. Hayne, of South Carolina.

VIRGINIA MILITARY APPROPRIATIONS.—The bill appropriating five hundred thousand dollars for the State armory, to be expended for machinery and the manufacture of fire-arms, has passed both houses of the Virginia Legislature.

AMALGAMATION BALL IN NEW YORK.—A grand amalgamation ball came off on Thursday evening at the Assembly Rooms, Prince street, composed entirely of black men and white women; no white man or black woman was admitted. The Daily News says.

The room was tastefully decorated with banners, flags, &c., and portraits of celebrated Abolitionists, conspicuous among the number being a beautiful colored photograph of John Brown, surrounded by a wreath of laurel. At one o'clock the festivities were brought to a close by the arrival of Broadway gamblers and shoulder-hitters with bags of flour and soot concealed about their persons. They commenced by throwing the flour over the black men, and the soot on the white women. At this juncture the lights were extinguished, and then commenced a scene which beggars description.

☞The children of the country owe Dr. John Bull an unlimited debt of gratitude for relieving them from the necessity of taking such nauseous and sickening drugs as worm-seed oil and kindred preparations. His Vegetable Worm Destroyer is the most effectual antidote to worms ever offered to the public, and at the same time one of the most agreeable little bonbons ever offered to a child.

THE RECEPTION AT COLUMBUS.

Gov. Dennison's Welcoming Speech.

GOV. MAGOFFIN'S RESPONSE FOR KENTUCKY.

Col. Newcom's Response for Tennessee.

[From the Cincinnati Commercial.]

The steamers Silver Moon and Bostona were chartered to meet the Strader below the city. The Silver Moon was off promptly, and met the Strader about five miles below the city. There was a fine band of music aboard, which discoursed most excellently. As the boats neared each other an animating scene occurred. There was music and cheering, waving of handkerchiefs, and a lively fraternization. There were cheers for Ohio, for Tennessee, for Kentucky, and for Indiana. The Bostona was behind time, and the Strader and Silver Moon waited for her about half an hour. When she hove in sight her decks were covered with people, conspicuous among whom were the Guthrie Greys. The crack company displayed full ranks, as usual. The Bostona also had a band of music, which gave the national airs with fine effect.

The three boats were lashed abreast and swept up to the city with banners flying, bands playing, and the people in great enthusiasm.

We found the guests in good condition, a little overtired, perhaps, but high-toned, as became the occasion. They had passed the night comfortably on the splendid and commodious Strader, and found abundance of warm breakfast awaiting them. The best feeling prevailed. The guests are of an order of men superior to those usually found on excursions; and there was agreeable evidence on all hands of the legitimacy and sincerity of the affair.

The scene on reaching the city was decidedly imposing. The bands on the boats were playing, the steam whistles at intervals were roaring like concentrated hurricanes, the cannon thundering from the shore, and the boats loaded to the guards with people, whose shouts were answered back with interest.

On the roof of one of the foundries in the lower part of the city, the workmen were out with a flag of our country, marching to the "music of the Union." Salutes were fired from the wharf and from the Newport Barracks.

The people turned out from the city largely, and blackened the boats and the landing, showing the enthusiastic state of popular feeling.

The boats swept gracefully past the city up to the depot, where they landed.

The buildings in front of the landing were beautifully decorated with flags. The approach of the boats from below was announced by a gun from the barracks across the river, and then the brass field pieces from this side joined in, bellowing "deep mouthed welcome" to the distinguished guests of Ohio. The trio of boats swarming with people—the Bostona on the inside, the Silver Moon on the outside, and the majestic Strader in the center—steamed gracefully up the river, amid the thunders of the artillery, to a point above Broadway, where they paused in the middle of the stream, while the Silver Moon and Bostona detached themselves from the Strader, the latter continuing her journey to the depot, greeted with hearty cheers, which were heartily returned. At the depot of the Little Miami road the guests disembarked, took seats in the cars of the special train furnished by Superintendent Durand, and sped away to the capital.

The Trip to Columbus.

FIFTEEN CARS FULL OF FUN—MR. LONGWORTH'S HEALTH WELL DRUNK—POPULAR MANIFESTATIONS ALONG THE ROAD—COLLATION AT XENIA.

The train of fifteen cars was well filled, and moved from the depot amid the acclamations of a multitude. All along the route, a lively interest in the excursion was manifested. Flags and handkerchiefs were waved, and the people appeared in excellent humor,—everything but the weather had a hospitable appearance.

There was at some points tasteful decorations. Among those we remarked was a fine display at Bunch Hill.

Col. Holmes, Senator from Hamilton county, declared through the cars, that all those who bore tickets "Guests of Ohio," must, while they remained in the State, exhibit them, and they were currency that would be a legal tender everywhere and for all amounts. This announcement was received with distinguished approbation.

Just beyond Morrow, the monotony of the trip on the cars was relieved by a profuse distribution of Longworth's Sparkling Catawba. About a dozen boxes of that glorious wine were distributed. The glasses being handed round with the remark "compliments of Nicholas Longworth" Mr. Longworth was, you may be assured, a very popular gentleman as the wine passed.

At Xenia there was a fine military turn out, a lunch, a salute, a big crowd, great enthusiasm, and a good time generally. There were four military companies, three of which were from Dayton and one from Miamisburg. Several additional cars were attached, and the enthusiasm increased.

Among the speeches made at Xenia, were those by a son of U. S. Senator Johnson, of Tennessee, who is a member of the Legislature of that State, and by Gov. Magoffin, of Kentucky.

The turn-out of the populace at this place was particularly pleasing. The vicinity of the depot was densely crowded, and a mass of some hundreds stood without flinching in the snow storm which was heavy and driven by a strong wind, to listen to the orators of Tennessee and Kentucky.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 26.

The guests of Ohio arrived at three o'clock, and were received with hearty enthusiasm. The people of Columbus assembled in great numbers at the depot and on the streets, cheering the procession to the portals of the State House. The Committee of Escort and other officers conducted the guests into the Hall of the House of Representatives, where they were received by the General Assembly in joint convention.

The address of welcome was delivered in a most impressive manner by Gov. Dennison, as follows:

Friends of Kentucky, of Tennessee, and of Indiana: On behalf of the people of Ohio, speaking through the General Assembly, I receive you at this their Capital.

I greet you as Representatives of Sovereign States. I salute you as brethren of the great valley of the Mississippi, the center and the citadel of the National Confederacy. I greet you as fellow citizens of the Union, so dear to us all, the source of whatever makes us most proud of our country, and the preservation of which, for the equal and common benefit of all the States, is alike the highest and most grateful duty of the American citizen.

By all these honored titles, you are heartily welcomed here to-day.

Gov. Magoffin responded eloquently on the part of the State of Kentucky. Addressing the Governor and General Assembly, he said:

"I must return, in behalf of the people of my State and of the Legislature of Kentucky, our grateful thanks for this most cordial welcome.—We had expected a warm welcome from the people of Ohio, but were unprepared for such a greeting as we have had. It has been a magnificent pageant from the moment we set foot on the landing at Cincinnati. We were received with the roar of peaceful cannon and the shouts of welcoming hosts.

"We will take home this welcome to the people of Kentucky. We will tell them of it and we will tell them that all we have to do to keep this Government together, is to see each other often, and to know each other better. Coming from the great Empire State of the West—from the State, renowned for her splendid educational systems and her benevolent institutions—eminent for her vast achievements, and glorious in her successful enterprise—we lay to our hearts the welcome of her chivalrous sons and beautiful daughters, and the generous hospitality with which they greet us. Let me return them in behalf of the people of Kentucky, and in behalf of her Representatives, our earnest and warmest thanks for this your graceful welcome."

Gov. Magoffin then introduced Col. Newcom, of the Tennessee Legislature, who responded in behalf of the State of Tennessee. Addressing Gov. Dennison, he said:

"I desire to thank you, sir, in behalf of the people of Tennessee, and to you, fellow-citizens of the State of Ohio, and in the name of the people of Tennessee, whom I represent, I return our hearty thanks for your welcome; and to you, ladies of Ohio, Tennessee returns her thanks for your presence here on this day. We come to mingle among you at your proud capital as brethren. We come not to invade you with hostile banners, but to engage with you in feasts of brotherly love. It is Tennessee and Kentucky that meet Ohio on this occasion, and I tell you, fellow-citizens, that while Congress cannot organize, Ohio and Tennessee and Kentucky will assemble and greet each other as brethren of our common and beloved country.

"We come together for a common purpose. We come because we can say in the Capital of Ohio that we are brethren of one blood. We come, I say, fellow-citizens of Ohio, to renew the bonds of union here. In olden times, when our fathers met in Independence Hall to form a Constitution, it was with feelings which should inspire us now. What is the Constitution? Read but the preamble, and let us ponder it well in our minds, and keep it in our hearts. To day, in the name of Tennessee, we are willing here to swear to support it in all time to come. I say this for the Representatives of Tennessee, and I say it for the people whom we represent; and we say to you, that as the Bible is to the Christian's heart, so is the Constitution to the heart of Tennessee. We return you, then, fellow-citizens of Ohio, our warmest thanks for your most generous welcome, and, believe me, we will bear the remembrance of it in our hearts." [Enthusiastic applause.]

After the meeting dispersed, the guests were escorted to the various public institutions, and were hospitably entertained at the residences of citizens. Governor Magoffin and Lieut. Governor Porter, of Kentucky, are the special guests of Governor Dennison.

At dark, the hotels and many stores and dwellings were brilliantly illuminated. The dome of the State House was splendidly lighted up, and the city was ablaze with pyrotechnic fires. Crowds of ladies and gentlemen thronged the streets, and there was universal hilarity abroad. After supper, the guests and their hosts assembled in the Hall of the House at a social levee, and afterwards in Odeon Hall, around the banquet table. Menter's band furnished superb music. Lieut. Governor Kirk presided, and the seats of honor were appropriately distributed.

The following regular toasts were read:

1. "Kentucky—Mother of wise statesmen and fair women; her younger sisters delight to do her honor."

Response by Governor Magoffin.

2. "Tennessee—The iron of her mountains, the corn of her valleys, and the cotton of her plains, represent in their union of interests the union of our people."

Response by Lieut. Governor Newcom, of Tennessee.

3. "Ohio—Her Representatives in every department gladly welcome to her Capital the Representatives of her sister States."

Response by Governor Dennison.

4 "The States of the Great Central Valley; in war, their blood has been mingled in the common defense—in peace, their blood flows in kindred veins; in war and peace, like the branches of their great river, they will unite their interests and sympathies in a common current, whose course shall endure forever."

Response by Senator Robert G. Payne, of Tennessee.

5. "The Legislature of Kentucky,"

Response by Lieutenant-Governor of Kentucky.

6. "The Legislature of Tennessee."

Response by Mr. Speaker Whitthorne.

7. "Our Federal Union. It must and shall be preserved!"

Response by Gov. Chase.

SPEECH OF GOV. CHASE.

Gov. Chase said:

Mr. President: Not far from the city of Nashville, on the southern shore of the Cumberland, and the pleasant scenes of the Hermitage, rises the modest monument which marks the final resting place of Andrew Jackson; there, after noble service to his country, in war and peace, the Patriot Hero sleeps; but his less noble country men, whether expressed in deeds or words, still live on the printed page of their hearts. Among these lessons none ever met a heartier response from the whole American people than the simple declaration, which has just been repeated, 'Our Federal Union, it must be preserved.' Far distant be the day when it shall meet a response less decided or less unanimous. The sentiment itself, indeed, was but echo to the utterances of all patriotic hearts, from the very beginning of the struggle for independence. The primal necessity of the revolution was union. Without it, the revolution itself, though in name a success, would in truth have been a disastrous failure. It was first and last among the aspirations of Washington and his great compatriots, and the most impressive among the final admonitions of the father of his country, are those which inculcate its priceless worth, and exhort his countrymen to its perpetual maintenance. It was fit that the first President from the new States should emphatically re affirm the judgment and purpose of the first President from the old. It is fit, also, when the Representatives of the three States first organized in this great central valley are gathered together as now, that this sentiment should be again affirmed with emphasis and decision. As the rivers of these States flow into one Ohio, bearing upon their bosoms their common interests of commerce, so should the affections of the dwellers upon these shores flow together in one vast current of devotion to the Union, laden with the precious freight of all their destinies.

But, Mr. President, I must not enter on this large theme, the time does not permit, nor is it needful. The number of those who, either at the South or at the North, really believe that the time for the dissolution of this Union has actually come, is too small to excite alarm—and, if there be others who suppose that, in certain contingencies, the destruction of the noblest political fabric ever reared by man, may become desirable, we may safely trust the logic of events for the demonstration of their error. For Ohio, at least, I may confidently speak. She has ever been and will ever remain loyal to the Union and the Constitution. While yet in my earliest manhood, I put on record my conviction that in all future, as in all past circumstances, Ohio will cleave fast to the National Constitution and the National Union, and that her growing energies will, in no occasion, be more willingly or powerfully put forth than in the support and maintenance of both in unimpaired vigor and strength. That conviction remains unchanged, nor do I doubt, Mr. President, that the spirit and purpose of Ohio is the spirit and purpose of all the States whose worthy and honored Representatives are gathered here to-night. We will not surrender the proud title of American citizens; we will not renounce our portion in the glories of the Imperial Republic; we will not madly fling away the most blessed boon of free institutions ever vouchsafed by heaven to man; we will not prejure for our children, instead of the noble heritage of freedom, prosperity and peace which our fathers transmitted to us, a detestable inheritance of despotism, calamity and civil war. No! no! a thousand times no! We will compose whatever differences have arisen, or may arise, in the spirit of our Fathers—claiming mutually nothing that we think wrong. We will concede mutually whatever we find to be just, cherishing, above all with the constant ardor of Washington, a cordial and immovable attachment to our Federal Union. We will resolve with the inflexible determination of Jackson, that it must be preserved.

8. "The memory of the Kentucky defenders of the soil, and homes, and homes of Ohio."

Response by Hon. John W. Crockett, of Tennessee.

9. "The Pilgrims: They laid the foundations of empire at Plymouth and Jamestown; the grand arch of the Republic rests safely thereon."

Response by Mr. Speaker Parsons.

10. "Washington: The noblest figure on the canvas of time."

Response by Columbus Delano.

11. "The Pioneers of Kentucky, Ohio, and Tennessee: A band of brothers—brave, simple, honest, and noble; may their descendants emulate their virtues."

Response by Hon. Jas. Stokes, of Tennessee.

12. "The States: The maintenance of the rights of each is essential to the common welfare of all.

Response by Hon. Thos. M. Key, of Ohio.

13. "Woman."

Response by Hon. Curtis F. Burnham, of the Kentucky Legislature.

The speeches at the levee were first rate. Mr. Andrews, of Kentucky, made a rich, royal, and humorous speech that took the crowd by storm. Senator Fayne, of Tennessee, made a fervid Union harangue, full of fun and wisdom. It was at once sound and juicy, and was received with heartfelt approbation.

SPEECH OF SENATOR FISK OF KENTUCKY—THE CROWD AT THE BANQUET—OHIO LEGISLATURE COMING DOWN.

Governor Magoffin asked to be excused from replying to the first toast, being unwell, and introduced Senator Fisk, of Kentucky, who made some happy hits. He said Kentuckians had not expected an invitation to Ohio, but determined to come, being awfully desirous of seeing Ohio people; and when the invitation came, the Kentuckians were the willingest fellows in the world to accept it.

He made a number of happy hits, and brought down the house. The remaining speeches were in good taste, and some of them first class efforts.

Gov. Chase's response was admirably received. The jam at the banquet was terrific. Many ladies from Kentucky, Tennessee, and Ohio graced the occasion.

The meeting was under full headway at midnight, and everybody in "good condition."

The guests will return at nine o'clock to-morrow, and the Ohio Legislature proposes to go down to Cincinnati with them.

MOTHERS

IN presenting you with DR. EATON'S INFANTILE CORDIAL, we desire to state its superiority over every nostrum that nurse or quack has heretofore offered you.

First—It is the preparation of a regular physician, who is well qualified from much experience in infantile complaints to prescribe for them. Secondly—It is entirely free from paregoric or opiate of any kind, and consequently relieves by removing the suffering of your child, instead of deadening its sensibilities. Thirdly—It is put up with great care, as a comparison of it with any other article for infantile complaints will show; the very roots from which it is distilled being dug from the forests under the direction of Dr. Eaton, many of them by his own hands. Fourthly—It is perfectly harmless, and cannot injure the most delicate infant, and is a certain cure and relief in all the following cases, which is its chief merit over every other preparation, viz:

FOR ALL COMPLAINTS ATTENDING TEETHING; such as DYSENTERY COLIC, &c.; also, for softening the gums and relieving pain. For regulating the bowels it is unequaled. For Cold in the Head it is a sure relief. For CROUP, the most fatal and trying of diseases, it can be relied on with perfect confidence; and being a powerful anti-spasmodic in all cases of convulsions for fits, we earnestly recommend you to lose no time in procuring it. Lastly—It costs so much more than other preparations of the kind, that we cannot afford such long advertisements as can those whose whole expense is their advertising; for the same reason, it commends itself as the most reliable to all mothers. In all cases, the directions wrapped around each bottle, must be strictly followed. Price, 25 cents per bottle.

Dr. Branson, having been so far relieved by consumption, as to be considered beyond all hope of recovery by the most eminent of the medical profession, and also by himself—a regular physician of twenty years' practice—as a last resort, conceived the idea of ANALYZING THE BLOOD, and applying the subject of physiology to the more immediate connection, and effect of the state of the blood upon the health and system. The result has been the production of this "BLOOD FOOD," from the use of which Dr. Branson was restored to perfect health. Within six months after its introduction, over two thousand consumptives were effectually cured by it. If you have any complaints of consumptive tendency—Cough, Cold, Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of appetite, pain in the side, lose no time in procuring a bottle of the "BLOOD FOOD." If you are suffering from Nervous Debility, or your sleep is broken and disturbed, if your Spirits are Depressed or your Organs relaxed, you will find in this an unfailing remedy, by commencing with two drops. If your Liver is torpid or diseased in any manner whatever, one or two bottles will be sure to invigorate, and bring it into lively and healthful action. In the most inveterate cases of Dyspepsia the patient can here find the most efficient and grateful relief. A benefit is always experienced after taking only one bottle. In Male or Female Complaints and Weaknesses, the sufferer, after trying other remedies in vain, may rest assured, that a certain cure will result from the use of two or three bottles. The "BLOOD FOOD" is effectual in all cases of Eruptions, Salt Rheum, Scrofulas and other like complaints. Pale and emaciated children and adults are immediately benefited by its use. It gives strength to the body and color and beauty to the skin. Physicians of all schools are using it with wonderful success.

For full directions, see circulars. Price $1 per bottle.

Mr. DeHAVEN—Finance—An act authorizing the erection of a monument over the graves of Daniel Boone and wife. A majority of the committee asked to be discharged from the further consideration of the leave.

Mr. HAYCRAFT eloquently and forcibly opposed the discharging of the committee. His speech, though short, was a beautiful tribute to the memory of Boone, and a stirring appeal to the patriotism of the Senators.

Mr. FISK was of the opinion that the best and most appropriate monument that could be erected to the memory of Boone already marks his grave. The stumps, the rocks, the cane, all speak of the wild times in which he lived. He was of the opinion that sculptured marble was entirely out of place. He favored discharging the committee.

Mr. READ opposed the discharge. He loved and revered the memory of Boone. We had, a day or two ago, appropriated $10,000 to a monument to Clay. He was of the opinion that we should not hesitate to vote an appropriation for the purpose contemplated in the bill.

Mr. DeHAVEN, in a beautiful but brief speech, supported the wish of the majority of the committee. He referred in eloquent terms to the appropriateness of the present surroundings of the grave.

The Senate refused to discharge the committee.

Street Railroads in Louisville.

We copy from the Louisville Democrat the following article on this interesting question:

MESSRS. HARNEY, HUGHES & CO.:

Gentlemen: No fictious conceit induces the proprietors on Main street to oppose the construction of a railroad on that street. They know by the sure and costly lessons of experience, commencing in 1838 and extending through several years, that a railroad car propelled by horse power, running from Sixth street to Portland, stopped all improvement below Sixth. An old fogy aspect covered all the line of the road. It was not until years after the rails were removed from the street, and it was hoped, forever, that buildings of a superior class took the place of the old, dilapidated houses below Sixth street. As late as the year 1846, standing on the colonade of the Louisville Hotel, the stranger's eye could not but light on an old coat just across the street, which hung in front of a frame building, with the sign "dyeing and scouring." While, during the same time, business extended from Sixth street up Main to Second, there was not a business house worthy of the name erected below Sixth street, until the horse car and rails had been removed. The owners of property cannot forget these lessons. Twenty-three years ago the intersection of Sixth and Main streets was enthusiastically, perhaps, called the center of business. Whoever stands there to-day, and looks up Main street, will see what prosperity came above Sixth street, where no horse car was feared, and he has only to look down Main street to see the blight of adversity which attended the property adjacent to that railroad.

It is in vain to quote the examples of other cities in reference to a Main-street road. No city was ever built up by street railroads. They have only been resorted to under the pressure of necessity. No city, with only one beautiful business street, has commenced the experiment of railroads on that one street. It may be proper to remind the reader that men who signed the remonstrance against the Main street road are not opposed to any other road. They are not old fogies, but they are men who have built magnificent stores, dwellings, factories and hotels—who have invested their funds in the bonds of the Nashville road and of the water-works. They are men whose labors to build up the city, and whose substantial structures will last, and be remembered, when they themselves are in their graves.

The discussion of this question has, probably, ere this, satisfied every man of business that the whole system of street railroads is too new and untried to be understood in its permanent effects on the streets where the roads have been located. The judgment of the wisest men in all parts of our land is against a headlong precipitation of such a question on the public mind. The newspapers inform us that legal proceedings have been instituted by citizens of Cincinnati against the road on Sycamore street, and the court ordered the removal of one of the tracks from that street. The intense aversion with which property owners regard the Main street road is a most laudable feeling, because the permanent prosperity of the merchants and proprietors on Main street is the sole object of the opposition to that road. The prosperity of this street will be felt in every street of the city and in every business, manufacturing as well as commercial.

A street railroad may cause a mushroom growth on vacant lots, but it will be dwarfish and second rate; or it may build up and establish a retail trade. It is totally incompatible with a business requiring heavy loads to be moved on two horse drays, the dray alone being twenty-five feet long, and the two or four-horse wagons twice that length, in a street fifty six feet wide from curb to curb, with a railroad car running in the center of the street.

The entire freight of two great railroads is now brought into Main street in two-horse wagons, from Jeffersonville and from New Albany. The turnpike wagon, with its white cover, is scarcely ever out of sight on Main; and yet not one of these vehicles could back up to discharge its load without danger and dread of the car, and of vehicles meeting the car, which would necessarily be forced aside from the track on the street a ready occupied by wagons or drays unloading. The necessary result of this hindrance to business would be, that the grocery, produce and commission business would be driven from the street, and vacant houses would abound, and the value of Main street property be greatly diminished. It is idle to think that other business would soon fill up the vacancies. No such other business is practical at present. If it were otherwise—if stores were wanted for other and better uses—leases of houses now occupied in the grocery and produce business could be purchased at a moderate advance, but such is not the case.

The upper and lower ends of Main street will gradually receive the grocery and produce business, as the progress of improvement works that trade from the central parts, where rents will be comparatively high. This is the natural course of trade; but trade may easily be drivon out of its natural course, and when once turned to other quarters, is not likely to be soon, if ever, regained.

Chicago is no example to us on the Main-street road question. She makes her proud boast of one hundred and twenty railroad trains arriving and departing in a day. The turnpike-four-horse-wagon-trade is, with her magnificent railroad connections, a mere drop in the bucket. The level grades of her streets require no such vehicles and beasts as are used in the New Albany and Jeffersonville railroad wagon. All her goods arrive by car and by steamer. Similar comparisons might be instituted with Cincinnati, whose heavy business is done in the district between the river and Third, and Broadway and Walnut.

No horse can ever descend from the hills into this quarter of that city. The railroad on her Fourth street may be a benefit, because that street is occupied by retail stores and dwellings, and not by the kind of trade now on our Main street. The location of the railroads in St. Louis is beyond the wholesale trade, on Fourth street, and back of it. In New York and Philadelphia the railroad cars do not run in streets doing any mixed business like Main street. Heretofore the cars have run on inferior streets, doing a retail trade, or occupied by dwellings of a second or third class. The case does not resemble ours in any of these cities which have a population of from a quarter of a million to a million inhabitants. The inconvenience of driving any one trade from any of their streets would not be perceptible in the face of an annual increase of population by tens of thousands. How different the case with us! Twelve months ago many stores on Main street were vacant, and remained vacant for many months, and during the present year but four stores have been erected from First to Eighth cross streets. These facts show clearly that Main street houses are not wanted for any other more profitable trade than is now done there. They show that the present trade of that street cannot be lost without a serious depreciation in the value of property thereon.

Main street is the only thoroughfare for all the trade and travel from the Indiana railroads—their wagons, omnibuses, baggage, and country wagons, pork and lumber and cooperage, &c. It is the only thoroughfare of the city for all the trade and travel from the river above the falls to the Bardstown pike, and for all the country below the falls. This trade and travel cannot be transferred to Water street, which is only seven squares long. It cannot be done on Market street, which is now fully occupied by market-houses and wagons, while no vehicles will go on Jefferson street, through dread of the locomotive.

Devote a portion of Main street to a railroad, and its business and travel and prosperity will leave it, and nothing be gained, except the notoriety of attempting to follow the course of other cities, whose age, extended and firmly established commerce, and large manufacturing population, makes that a necessity for them, which with us is only a wild foolishness.

It has been said that a railroad is requisite to carry laborers from one end of the city to the other, at low rates of fare. If this were true, there would certainly be some evidence of the fact; as, for example, vast numbers going up and down Main, to their daily labor, morning and evening. Where are these vast numbers of laborers, and where is their work? At present we are told that five or six omnibuses do all this business, and are not half the time full. The railroad on Jefferson street could carry ten times the number for whose convenience so many anxious thoughts now press upon public attention. A car on that street road would not be subject to such detentions as would be experienced passing through Main street. It would more than accommodate all, and be more accessible to the majority of the people, being nearer their dwellings than a road on Main street, while the trip to Portland would probably be made in less time on Jefferson than on Main street.

The question of jurisdiction, and whether the Legislature is not prohibited by the acts of the State of Virginia, may be of importance to all who desire to engage in such enterprises.

By ROB. J. CULVERWELL, M. D.,

Author of "The Green Book," &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of self-abuse may be effectually removed without Medicine and without dangerous Surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself, cheaply, privately, and radically. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Spring Bed for Sale in Frankfort.

GOULD'S PATENT. This is an entirely new application of spiral springs to beds, making decidedly the most comfortable, neat, and cheap spring bed ever offered for sale, adjusted to every description of bedstead. We believe it entirely useless to go into detail relative to the advantages of this bed, having entire confidence in its durability and adaptation to the wants of the people. We offer to attach it to any bedstead, submit it to trial, to the satisfaction of any person, at the extraordinary low price of $4 50, and if, after trial, it proves unsatisfactory, take it away, refund the money, and replace old bottom as we found it.

A Specific for Hooping-Cough.

IT is known by a few individuals in the counties of Jefferson, Shelby, and Oldham, that I have a remedy that effectually cures Hooping-Cough. If there are remedies in America or Europe that cures, it is not within my knowledge, (except the one I use.) Physicians tell the families they attend it can't be cured. I have no doubt they are candid in what they state. To get the medicine in use, and lull to sleep a deep-rooted prejudice, the faculty are invited to get the medicine, and save the little innocents whom they attend, and tell them no more it cannot be cured. One dollar will pay for two bottles, which is a sufficiency for one child. This medicine can be conveyed to any part of the United States by express for a mere trifle. ENGLISH AND CLASSICAL

FEMALE INSTITUTE,

BRIDGEPORT, KY.

THE semi-yearly sessions of this Institute commence on the first Monday in February, and the first Monday in September, each year. The course of study embraces the Primary, Academical, and Collegiate Departments, with the Modern Languages. The mode of instruction is both rapid and scientific. To raise the standard of Female Education is the great aim of the Teachers, and to aid them in this, a "Visiting and Examining Committee" of three will visit the school quarterly, and by their viva voce examinations will prove, it is hoped, valuable auxiliaries to the Teachers in exciting a spirit of energy and application. The course of instruction embraces four departments, and diplomas will be granted those who complete thoroughly and successfully a full course of study.

The location is in the pleasant village of Bridgeport, (four miles from Frankfort and forty-six from Louisville,) which is unsurpassed for its salubrity, and the morality and refinement of its inhabitants make it a desirable place for the education of girls. It is convenient of access by the Louisville, Frankfort, and Lexington railroad, and by daily stages and omnibuses from Frankfort, Shelbyville, and Louisville. The young ladies board in the family of the Principal, and are treated with parental care and kindness, uniting at the same time all the advantages of a refined social intercourse. The sessions will continue twenty weeks; but pupils are received at any time and charged accordingly. No deduction made for absence or withdrawal save in cases of protracted illness. All bills to be paid strictly and invariably in advance.

THE VESPER GAS OR AIR LIGHT,

The Cheapest, most Brilliant, and most Convenient Artificial Light in the World!

THE Vesper Gas Light has won for itself a reputation for elegance, economy, safety, and simplicity far beyond any other artificial light. The Vesper Gas flame and fixtures precisely resemble in form those of coal gas; but in brilliancy and purity of light, it possesses a decided advantage over even Louisville coal gas. It requires no chimney; there is no need of daily trimming of wick; and the construction of the fixture is so simple that it is not liable to get out of order, and a child can manage it readily. The gas burned in the Vesper fixtures is generated from pure coal oil, without any admixture of alcohol or other foreign ingredient. It is entirely free from odor while burning, as, by a simple contrivance, the vapor of the oil is mixed with the atmosphere, producing perfect combustion and a most intense light. The light has been pronounced by those who have had it in constant use for months, as most pleasant to the eye while reading or sewing, there being no flicker or unsteadiness in the flame. The Vesper Gas Light is portable, and can be used in town or country—in fact, wherever artificial light is required. The fixtures themselves are adapted to styles to suit all tastes, from the plain single-light burner to the most costly chandelier. Each chandelier is perfect in itself; there is no outlay to be made for service pipes. The gas is generated in the burner, and all fixtures, from the cheap single-light burner to the expensive chandelier, are miniature gas-works in themselves. They are sold at prices which do not exceed the cost of the ordinary gas fixtures of similar style and ornamentation. A price list will be sent to any address on application.

MERCHANTS

visiting Louisville should not fail to procure the Vesper Gas Fixtures for their stores.

Churches, Hotels, Public Halls, and Private Residences throughout the State can now be fitted up with these elegant and convenient chandeliers, and other beautiful gas fixtures, which add so much to the appearance of such places and to the comfort of the home circle, and which heretofore could be used only in those favored districts embraced within the coal-gas limits of large cities.

The limited space of an advertisement precludes the insertion here of the numerous testimonials of approval we have received from all quarters. Suffice it to say, scientific men and others who have examined and thoroughly tested the merits of the Vesper Gas Light, pronounce it the best and cheapest artificial light now known.

☞ The proprietor respectfully requests responsible merchants in every town and county in the State to correspond with him, believing they will find it to their interest to aid him in introducing this unrivaled light to their customers.

Vesper Fixtures and Coal Oil prepared expressly for his burner kept constantly on hand, and for sale wholesale and retail. WM. H. SLTTLE,
